

Label economics of certification: uniform sampling is near-optimal; costs sit a small factor above the information floor

